

Hampi, a beautiful and historic village in the state of Karnataka, has been drawing visitors from all across the globe and country. The destination is renowned for its group of monuments that is listed as UNESCO World Heritage Site. Situated on the banks of the River Tungabhadra, the place is just beautiful and historically rich. The destination is world-renowned for its 7th-century Hindu Virupaksha Temple, Vittala Temple and a chariot made carved out of stone.

Hampi, a beautiful and historic village in the state of Karnataka, has been drawing visitors from all across the globe and country. The destination is renowned for its group of monuments that is listed as UNESCO World Heritage Site. Situated on the banks of the River Tungabhadra, the place is just beautiful and historically rich. The destination is world-renowned for its 7th-century Hindu Virupaksha Temple, Vittala Temple and a chariot made carved out of stone. Being one of the most prominent historical cities in India, reaching Hampi [1] from anywhere in the world is not an issue. The destination is well connected to rest of country via strong network of trains, flights and buses. The nearest airport to Hampi is Hubli Airport, which is about 166 km away while the closest railhead is Hospet Junction (13 km away). Moreover, Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation (KSRTC) connects Hampi with major neighbouring towns and cities.

BY AIR:

Hubli Airport, approximately 166 km away, is the closest domestic aerodrome to Hampi, operating regular flights from Bangalore. The Belgaum Airport is another major domestic airport, located around 270 km away from Hampi, having regular SpiceJet flights for Bangalore [2], Chennai, Jabalpur and Mumbai. Tourists can easily get a cab or taxi from outside the airport to reach the lovely village of Hampi.

BY ROAD:

Hampi is well connected with major cities and towns of Karnataka by bus services. Besides Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation (KSRTC), a number of private and tourist buses ply regularly from neighbouring cities and towns. Then there are a few interstate bus services too connecting Hampi with various cities in Goa, Andhra Pradesh and Maharashtra. One can also drive to Hampi taking NH 13 route from Hyderabad [3] (380 km), Bangalore (345 km) and Hubli (165 km). Bangalore to Hampi buses are cheap and take less than 8 hours.

BY TRAIN:

Hospet Junction is the nearest railway station to Hampi (13 km away), which is well linked with rest of country via an extensive network of trains. There are regular trains for Hospet from prime Indian cities and towns, including Bangalore, Hyderabad and Goa. Hampi Express, Amaravathi Express and Haripriya Express are some of the prominent trains. After reaching the railway station, one can hire a taxi or cab to reach Hampi. The destination is extremely classy and historic and has a number of interesting places to visit!

Source URL (modified on 20/03/2023 - 12:25pm): <https://www.mypadnow.com/ncpa2023/travel-to-hampi>

Links

[1] <https://timesofindia.indiatimes.com/travel/Hampi/travel-guide/cs50074792.cms>

[2] <https://timesofindia.indiatimes.com/travel/Bangalore/travel-guide/cs24489047.cms>

[3] <https://timesofindia.indiatimes.com/travel/Hyderabad/travel-guide/cs25216635.cms>

